A Protestant Vision consists of seven lengthy chapters and is divided into two parts, the first dealing with Harrison's view of history, the second with his vision of England. Chapter one, 'The Two Churches', shows how the enthusiastic young Protestant convert came to feel that if history was studied closely and scrupulously enough he would be able to establish a means of judging the successes and failures of the Elizabethan Church 'as part of the prophetic continuum of history' (p ...

The Three Eras is a Judeo-Christian scheme of periods in historiography, called also Vaticinium Eliae (prophecy of Elijah or Elias). A three-period division of time appears in the Babylonian Talmud: the period before the giving of the law (); the period subject to the law; and the period of the Messiah. This scheme was later adapted to Christian use, with three periods corresponding to the ...
