The newly designed ¡Arriba!, 7th edition, gives students and instructors a more modern, clean, and user-friendly experience. Vibrant new chapter openers. Students can explore online details of the art piece and reflect on how the images relate to cultural products, practices, and perspectives. Improved Logical sequence of activities. Activities in both Vocabulario and Estructuras move consistently from meaningful, form-focused reception to communicative self-expression. Simplified, easy to implement info-gap activities. ¡Necesito información! activities have straightforward directions that quickly get students on task to problem-solve or role play situations related to the chapter cultural and thematic focus. Improved vocabulary presentations. Based on thoughtful feedback from instructors, the revised Vocabulario sections purposely integrate and highlight key vocabulary into the introductory contextualized dialogues. In addition, the revised Vocabulario lists provide a more cohesive presentation of high-frequency expressions. Revised grammar presentations. While keeping the same thoroughness, the streamlined and visually appealing grammar explanations in Estructuras help students grasp concepts more easily as they study on their own. New self-assessment in presentations. ¡Comprendes!, a quick self-check activity in each vocabulary and grammar presentation, helps students confirm that they are ready to move forward with more complex and communicative activities, or that they should review the presentation again. ¡Recuerdas! activities, placed before appropriate grammar presentations, help students connect previous knowledge to what they are about to learn.

How do you know what you know is true? During the blizzard of 1978, a woman is discovered face down at the edge of her Delaware estate, a boxer, half-dead, by her side. Nearby, in a deep ravine, a CIA officer lies buried under two feet of snow. Their secret meeting--sabotaged. When Emma Quinn gets a call in her Manhattan apartment--your grandmother, out walking her dog, found dead in the snow--she has no reason to suspect foul play. A history professor at Columbia and the sole heir to the Quinn fortune, she heads down to Delaware, where her grandmother's death has triggered a series of unsettling events--a break-in at the estate, an unexpected visit from the CIA and the discovery of a disturbing collection of news clippings in an upstairs study--about hijackings, bombings and acts of terror. Back in Manhattan, Emma is being followed by a mysterious stranger. Her distress grows when she meets a well-known historian, a Scotsman and Sovietologist named Angus McLearn, who accuses her late grandfather of wrongdoing during the 1930s and '40s. Determined to clear her grandfather's name and to understand her grandmother's fate, Emma forms an uneasy alliance with McLearn. Together, they head deeper into an intrigue that harks back to the beginnings of the Cold War and the early days of the intelligence community. As Emma's research and the CIA's investigation into the death of their agent begin to intersect, she no longer knows who or what to believe. And it soon becomes apparent that this isn't just about something that happened in the 1940s. It's about an operation that is still in play in 1978, one that puts Emma--and the broader world--at risk. When a discovery leads her to her family's remote Adirondack cabin, the stranger follows. There, Emma is forced to confront the truth--about her family and about history as we know it.
